

REMINDERS

We are currently TIED with Mrs. Schefer's class for the Yearbook orders contest!

Yearbook Orders due February 8th, so order ASAP if you still want one! These are great for the kids to have at the autograph party the last day of school.

Website to order yearbooks: www.inter-state.com/yearbook code 23118y

MATH

Grades are up-to-date in RDS. They will have a short quiz over multiplying fractions tomorrow. It is made to be very basic and concentrating only on skills- there are no word problems or anything difficult. It is simply to see if they can multiply with fractions, whole numbers, and mixed numbers. The problems are easier than what I've given them in class. I met with every student one-on-one today to go over the skills included. They also have a short quiz over the DMR for this week. It is going to be very simple and review over skills from earlier this year (area of rectangles & triangles, classifying triangles by sides/angles, and classifying polygons).

Monday, we move on to Dividing Fractions. It's very similar to their work the past few days, so it should be a smooth week.

The Virtual Lesson is due Tuesday for both ELA and Math.

SCIENCE

The students have been working daily on their invention projects. They have been working so hard during class! Some have given up their recess time outside to come in to record their advertisement, and many have worked outside of school. A few groups are nearly finished already, and will move to extension options soon. The presentations are scheduled to begin Feb 12 or 13th, depending on whether they need a presentation "practice" day. If all the groups are done before that, then we'll start on Feb 12th.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Grades are NOT up-to-date in Social Studies yet, but don't worry. The students have all been working hard learning about the events leading up to the American Revolution and completing work in class, so there is nothing to worry about for any of them. They will be updated by the end of the weekend.

Enjoy our bit of snow from today, and have a great Friday!